

The T-Puzzle Exercise

Instructor's Copy

Directions:

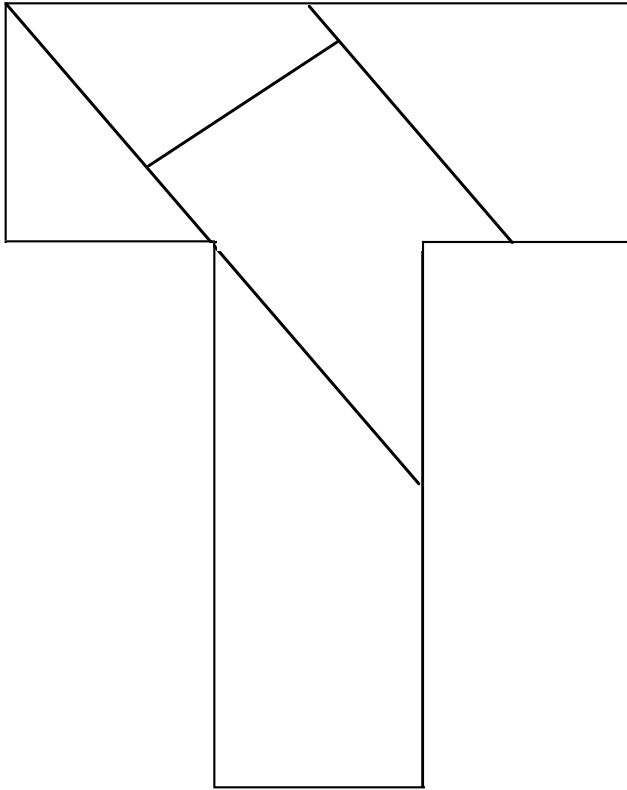

1. There will be a "client" and "consultant" in each group; the others will act as observers.
2. The client and consultant are to sit back-to-back
3. Half of the observers are to position themselves in order to view the client, and the other half to view the consultant.
4. When given the signal, the client and consultant are to open their envelopes and take out the puzzle pieces.
5. The consultant is then to instruct the client how to arrange his/her puzzle pieces to form a symmetrical "T." (The consultant will have a diagram indicating how the pieces are to be arranged.)
6. The client and consultant may not look at each other, or each other's puzzle pieces, nor may any questions be asked. Only one-way communication is permitted.
7. When the second signal is given, two-way communication may begin (i.e., questions and answers are permitted).
8. Observers' role: You must be careful not to coach, giggle, etc. while taking notes during the process.
9. At the completion of the process, the group should discuss what happened. Start with the observers views, then move on the to consultant and client.

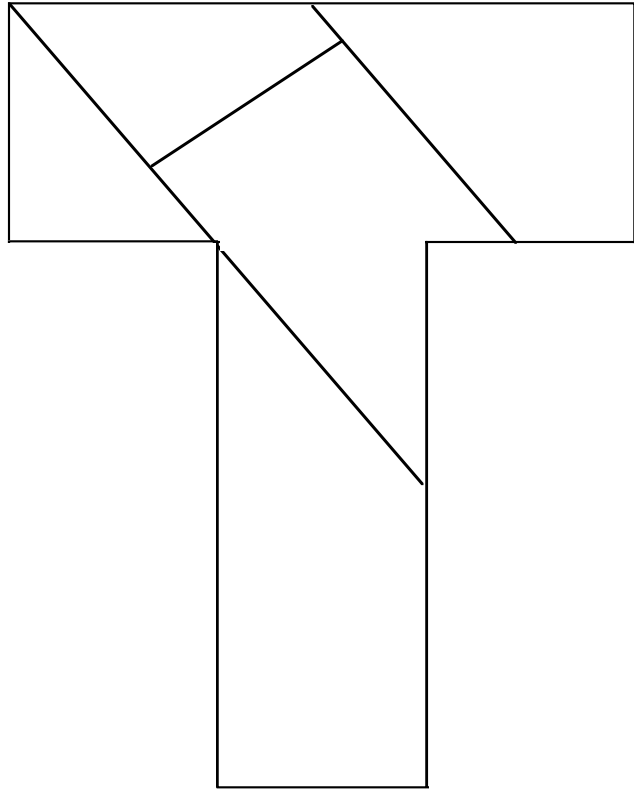

Cut the T out of different colors (mix sets...the client and consultant should not have the same color pieces) -

- next page is consultant's - he/she has a diagram indicating how the pieces are to be arranged
- second page is puzzle pieces to be duplicated and cut

*The T-Puzzle Exercise
(consultant's diagram)*

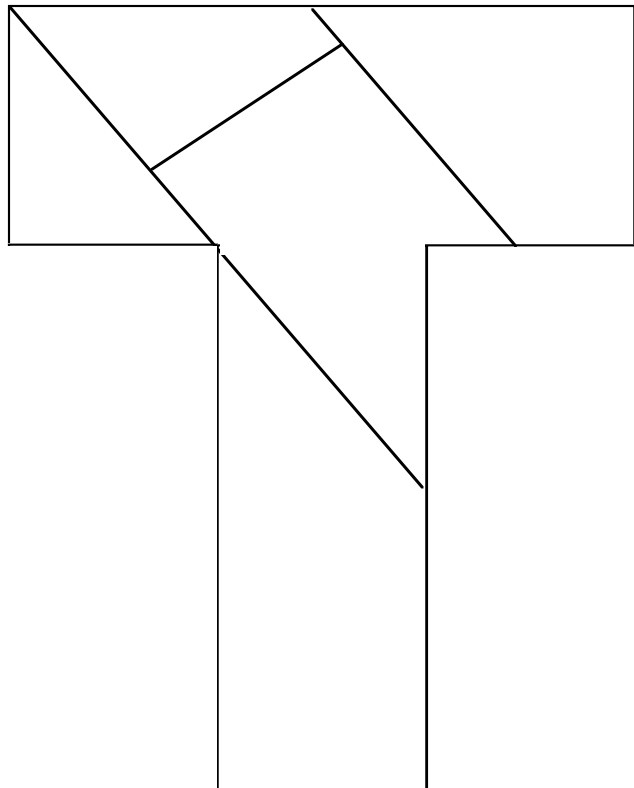

*The T-Puzzle Exercise
(consultant's diagram)*

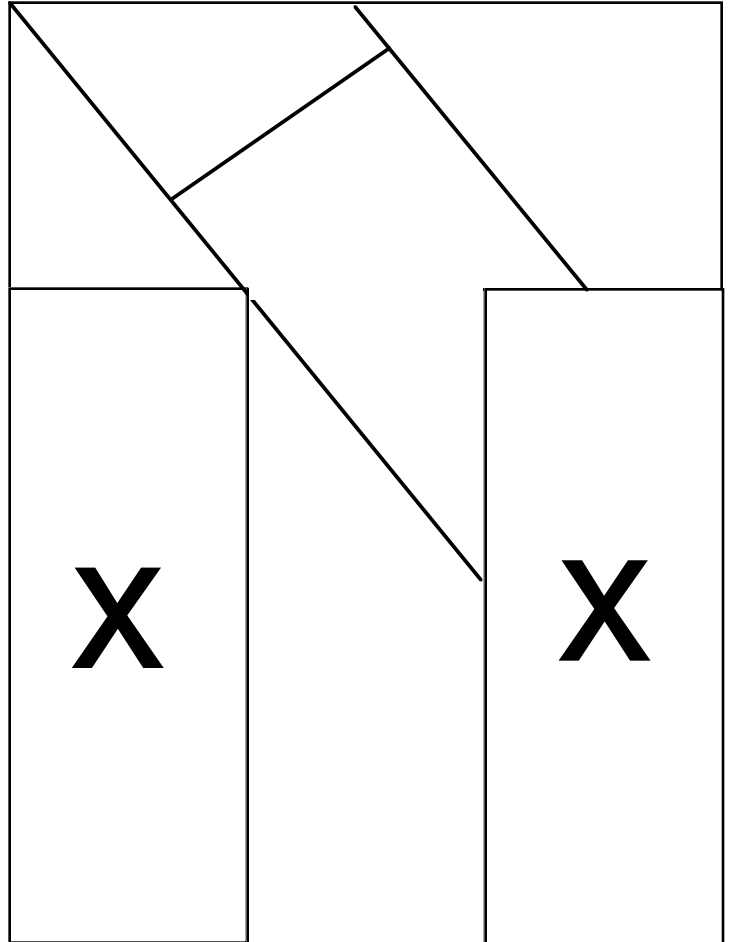

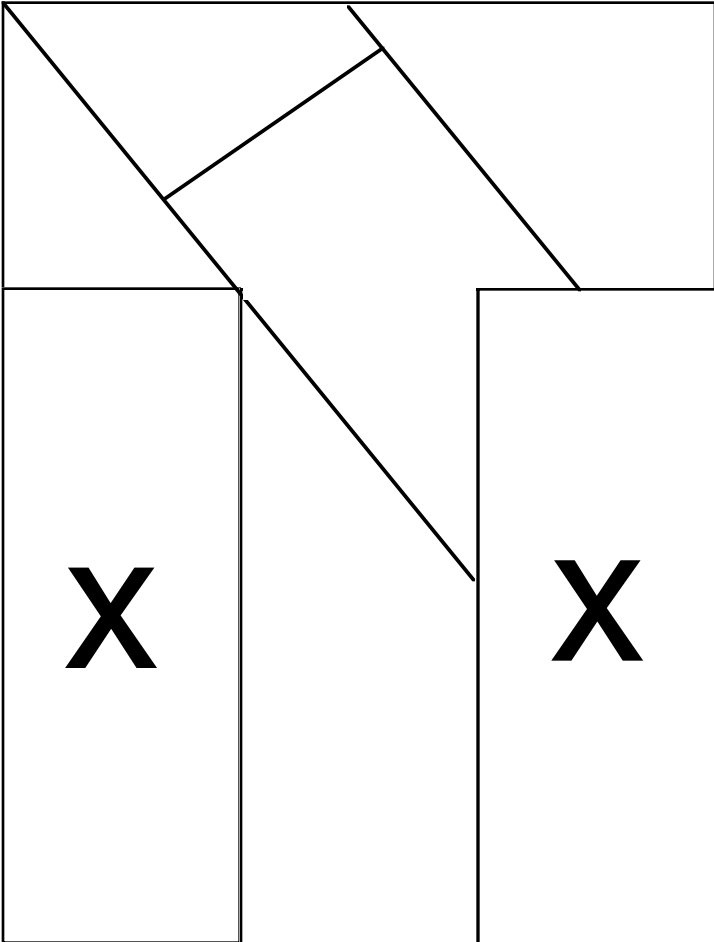

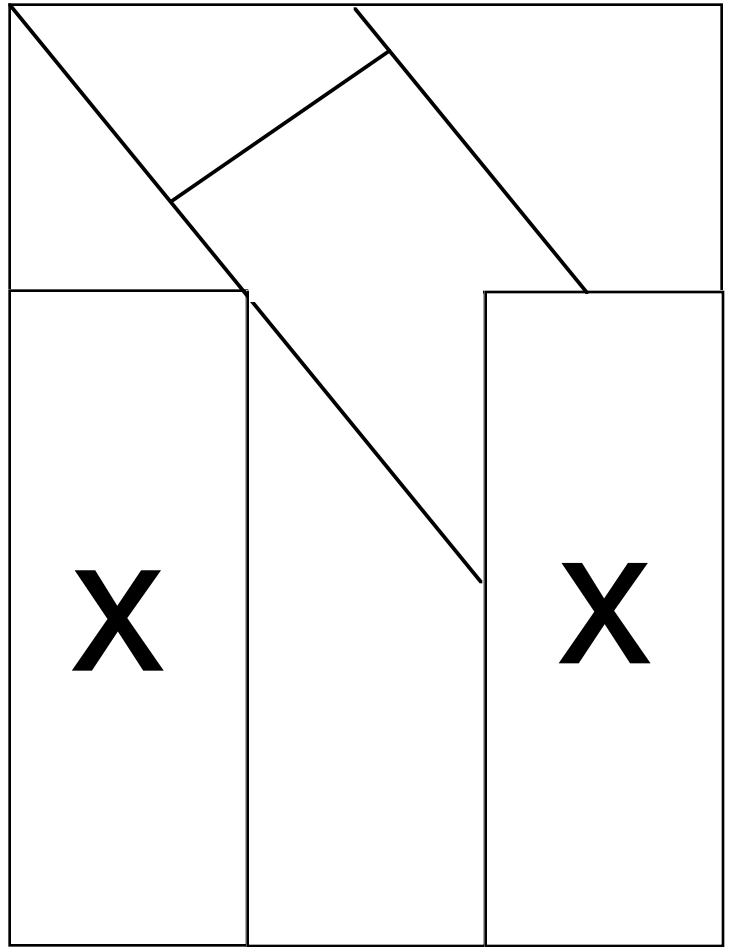

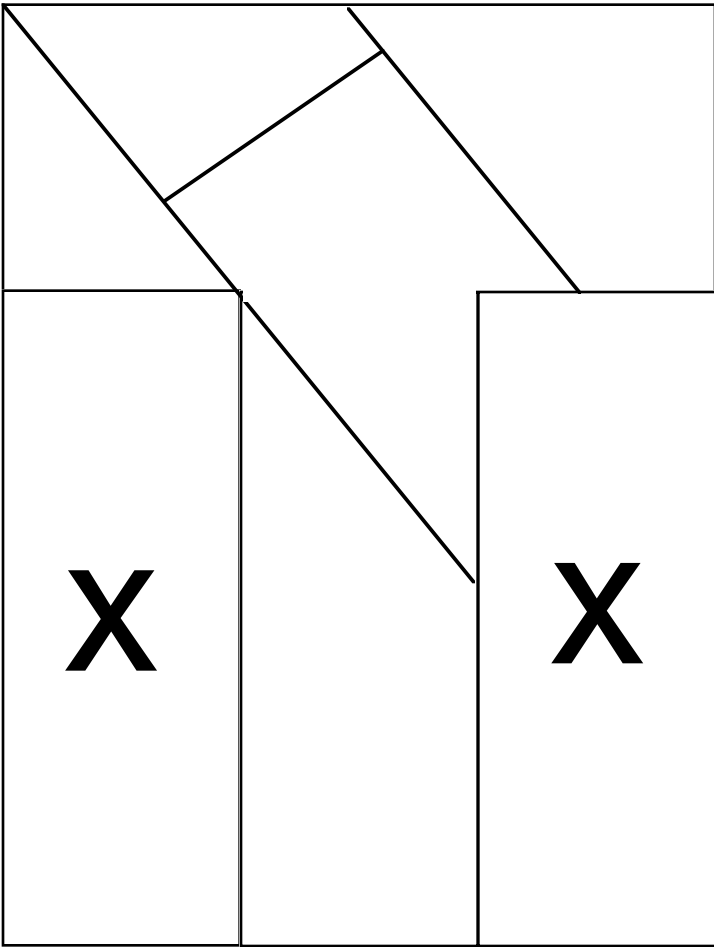

*The T-Puzzle Exercise
(consultant's diagram)*

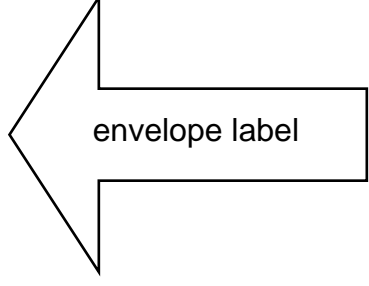

*The T-Puzzle Exercise
(consultant's diagram)*

T- Puzzle Exercise

“CONSULTANT”

T- Puzzle Exercise

“CLIENT”

