School spirit is about community. It is about believing in something bigger than oneself. It is about understanding and feeling that the whole is greater than the sum of the parts, and that as an entity a strong school can be a powerful force in individual lives. School spirit is about believing that you as an individual are an important piece of this big picture and that what you belong to is something to be proud of and excited about.

SPIRIT LINKS

KCrawford

The SPIRIT LINKS activity has two purposes. One is to help promote school spirit and the other is an easy and quick fundraiser. The materials are minimal, the planning is simple, there is very little work time involved, some money is raised, and, overall, school spirit is improved. This activity is usually run as a competition among the grades.

A large, see-through jar (plastic, not glass) is labeled for each grade. At lunch time, all of the jars are set on a table with a student always monitoring the jars. Students drop their "spare change" in their grade-level jar. Each 5¢ earns that grade a "spirit link". Each day, the amount of money in each jar is counted and "spirit links" (paper chains - a different color for each grade) are put together and hung up in the cafeteria (or front hallway) so students "see" which grade has more spirit. The "see- through" jar is also a strong motivator for spirit.

Before and After jobs....(great for students who cannot participate daily...)

MATERIALS/JOBS	PERSON(S) RESPONSIBLE		DATE
large see-through plastic jars (a slot cut for coins in each tops) - one for each grade cut and connect links to form chains of nine links prepare and put up publicity (PA announcements, skits, etc.)
take down publicity posters take down spirit links

Daily Jobs	Gds	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday

Helpful Hints:

- connect spirit links in sets of 9, then in the afternoons, connect the new chains with the previous chains with one link, making an additional 10 links each time. (If you anticipate great participation, you could connect in groups of 25, 50, etc.) - use a paper cutter to cut paper into appropriate length and width
- make links big enough to connect with a stapler (faster and cheaper than tape)
- hang the chains high enough so students cannot jump up and grab them. (You may need to have building service lend a tall ladder each day!)

This is an easy activity to modify...for example -

- use red-white-blue paper chains
- allow the grade with the most chain links to "chain" a different teacher each period (that class has a "free period")
- write names on the links and have a drawing to choose students for special prizes (certificates to fast food restaurant, etc.)
